IMPORTANT AGRICULTURAL MARKET IN KERALA.

Agriculture is the 'Vital Sector in the States' economy. Among the total main workers of 67.43 lakhs in the State as per the 1981 Population Census, as much as 27.90 lakhs of people are engaged in agriculture. From the production stage, an agricultural commodity undergoes various types of transaction viz. Farm, Wholesale (Primary, Secondary and Terminal). Retail before it reaches the ultimate consumer. The farmers receives a low price for his produce while the Consumers have to pay a very high price. The Government have to safeguard the interests of both farmers as well as Consumers.

The Price & other agricultural economic intelligence have always stood in need of improvement both in content and coverage. A scheme for improvement of market intelligence was thus implemented in the second five year plan. The Department of Economics & Statistics is operating a Market Intelligence Scheme which provides regular and prompt supply of news on market data to cultivators and government agencies controlling supplies and prices. At present the scheme covers only 38 markets selected nearly two decades ago. In the subsequent years a large number of new markets dealing with a variety of agricultural and livestock products have emerged in various parts of the State. Information on the prices at these centres also are of Vital importance as a substantial share of produce is handled in these markets. There is however no reliable information of even basic characteristics of these markets like their location, commodities handled etc. with the result that selection of representative markets for coverage on Market Intelligence scheme has not been possible. It became necessary to conduct a detailed market survey of the agriculture and livestock markets in the State to identify important markets and extend the Market Intelligence Scheme.

The object of the market survey is to collect and compile detailed information in respect of important agricultural (including fish and livestock) markets in the State on the following items viz., location and importance; type of market, periodicity and peak marketing periods; Commodities handled; their quantity, feeding and despatching Centres; methods of handling transportation and marketing; storage and transport facilities and trade and financial organisations supporting the market.

In order to achieve this object a directory of block/townwise information of markets, location, commodities handled and periodicity etc., was prepared.

Preliminary data for the preparation of the list of markets were collected from the records of local bodies. Local enquiries were made by contacting the knowledgeable informants like traders, cultivators, brokers, commission agents etc. to make the list upto date. In addition information on commodities handled, periodicity etc. was also collected. The data for the directory were collected utilising the services of Junior Statistical Inspectors in the block in the rural areas and Statistical Inspectors in the Municipal/Corporation areas. The field work was conducted during the period March to May 1986. The compilation work was attended to by the Market Intelligence Division of the Directorate over and above their normal duties.

The markets in the State have been classified under two categories viz, wholesale and retail. The wholesale market is defined as one in which relatively a largescale transaction of purchase for further sale is effected. The retail market on the other hand is one where relatively small scale transactions of purchase mainly by the consumer or retail merchants take place. The same market may be a wholesale market in respect of one commodity and a retail market for another. So far preparing this list, a market is considered as a wholesale market provided there is regular large scale transaction for further sale in respect of at least one commodity.

Details of wholesale as well as retail markets have been prepared separately in respect of each block/town. Altogether there are 1863 markets in the State of which 348 are wholesale markets while the remaining are retail markets. The maximum number of markets are in Quilon and Trivandrum districts, the number being 273 and 222 respectively. In Wayanad & Kasargode Districts, there are only 13 markets.

The list of wholesale and retail markets are given in the subsequent pages.
